An assessment of lessons learned
The most important lesson we learned during the realisation of the project is the necessity of societal control over operation of the public administration in Poland.
We were interested in the grant extension procedures used in Polish communes. Though the grant extension are only small part of all local governments’ spendings (average 1.0%, but in Warsaw they are equal 33 mln PLN – 8 mln USD in 2001) it occurred that no one of the inquired local government operate properly. Even those which implemented model solutions. So we have to say that no field of operation of public administration can be free of the societal control.

This kind of activity should deal with every sphere – the creature and evaluation of the politics, the creature and observance of the procedures, the access to the public information and others.

The performance of the control needs sources – people who would like to engaged, instruments they could use. It is important to stimulate the rising of such groups and the preparing of instruments helpful in societal control.

The another learned lesson is the necessity of implementation of models, examples of good practice of operation of the public administration in Poland like Transparent Commune.

We are convinced that this two elements – models of operation and societal control over it - should improve standards of operation of the public administration and diminish high level of corruption in Poland.

Next steps

The prepared and piloted instrument will be used by Anti-Corruption Programme during the training cycles preparing Local Civic Groups. The expert study on the law backgrounds of the instrument supporting control over operating of the public administration “Transparent Commune – Models of Grants Giving” by Andrzej Szeniawski was included as a part of the instrument “The Model of Transparent Commune” by Anti-Corruption Programme. You can find it here: http://www.przeciw-korupcji.org.pl/. Our activity was involving four such Local Civic Groups cooperating with Anti-Corruption Programme and three Partners from Local Partnership Network. Two of Local Civic Groups will carry on activity based on the experiences of the project Transparent Commune and using the instrument. We expect that our cooperation will be successful in creating the network of watchdogs. The first step – starting of operation of the NGO Watch – an internet site – will come soon.

The instrument with some necessary changes can be used in observance of operation of public administration in other range than the grant extension procedures. So now our association is preparing a new project – based on experiences form Transparent Commune - observance over processes of location the new investments. There are many cases of corruption in these procedures also involving ecological organizations – so called “eco-tribute”.
